LEVELS

APPRENTICE

Apprentice for the true beginner; the novice or recreational dancer. This dancer engages with street dance at a recreational level, has limited experience on a stage and does not dance more than two hours per week.

PRE-COMPETITIVE

for the dancer who trains slightly more seriously than the recreational dancer but does not yet want to participate in the full competitive program. These dancers train on average 3-5 hours a week and have some consistent training from year to year but they may have started late or train less hours.

COMPETITIVE

This is the standard competitive division, these dancers are serious about their dance training and typically dance more than 6+ hours a week in multiple dance styles. They have on stage dance experience and participate in training/workshops. Dancers who specialize in street dance styles for all of their 6+ training hours must register in the Select division level.

Hours of training are only a suggestive guideline please place your dancers to the best of your ability

SELECT

The Select Division (Advanced) is for the dancer who emphasizes Street Dance training. This dancer is taking their street dance training seriously by focussing their intention on hip hop and street dance training. They participate in additional training opportunities, workshops, conventions and masterclasses and focus on their craft more than 8+ hours a week in any style plus additional training focussed on street dance genres. Dancers in these crews usually have to audition for placement and maintain a higher level of commitment.
